A VIRTUAL TOUR OF THE CITY

A micro-scale city, more than 2,000 venues on a great mock-up of Gdynia, a panorama from a 22 metre-tall tower of Poland's only road axis entering the sea or a walk around Gdynia that will be developed only in several years – this is just a sample of the offer of Gdynia's InfoBoks launched in June 2013. In the main Gdynia Infobox hall you will find the city's mock-up model of 8x4 m, which includes both already existing buildings and those currently being developed. It is complemented by touchscreens that will take spectators on an interactive trip into the future.

CultureBox allows visitors to explore the city's cultural offer and book a ticket for must-see events. There are also numerous exhibitions, presentations and meetings. The Maritime Economy Forum is a meeting of practitioners and experts representing the maritime sector.

Gdynia also hosts the cyclic Maritime Economy Forum, whose organisers recommend it as the best opportunity to learn more about the problems of the marine sector and work out solutions that take into consideration the interests of entrepreneurs and enable a dynamic growth of marine economy. The event can be described by the following figures: more than 600 guests, 30 speakers, including representatives of the largest ports in Poland, managers and owners of marine industry companies. World-famous Gdynia landmarks also include, i.a. the Musical Theatre and festivals, while corporations enthusiastically apply sea travel as an essential item of their team-building agendas. One thing seems to be sure: not only residents, but also visitors agree that Gdynia is a good place to live.
